Foreword

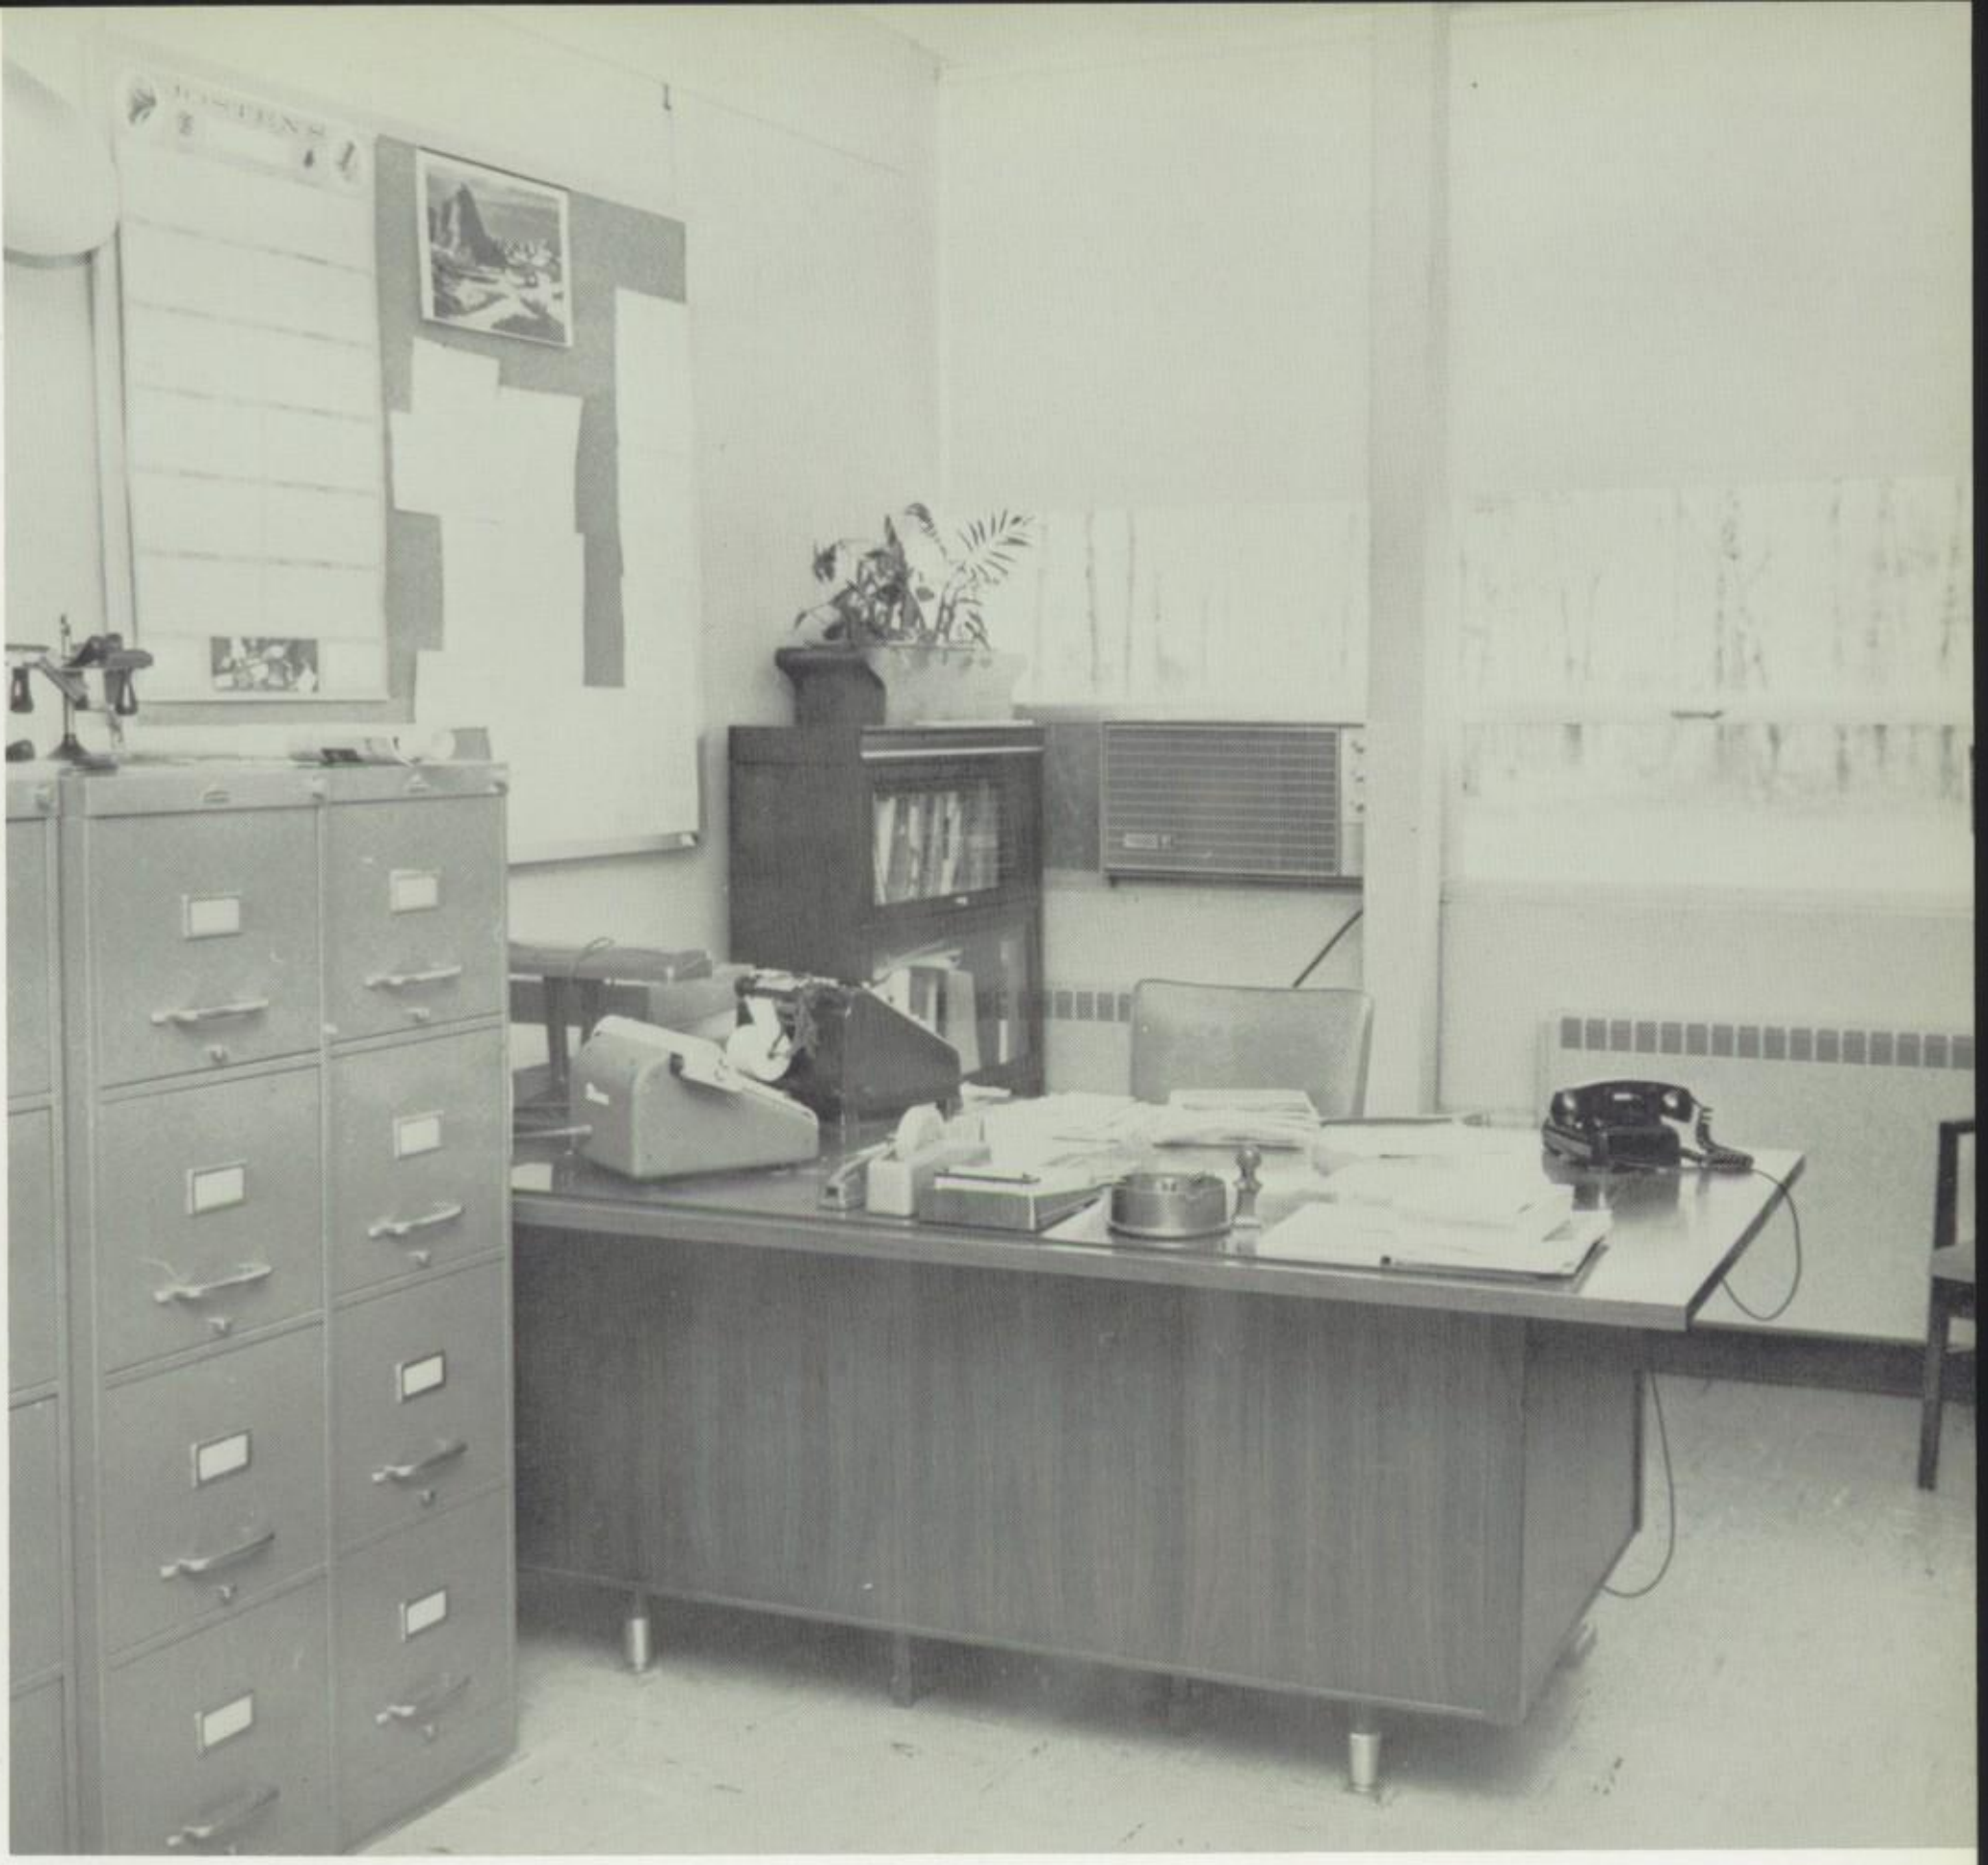
The seasons! Botticelli painted Springtime. The Luimbourg Brothers wrote The Book of Hours depicting the seasons. The Impressionists painted many pictures with the seasons as a theme. Many writers, artists and musicians, who have played an important part in our cultural heritage have tried to express the importance of the seasons of the year.

The seasons are, to an extent, deciding factors which govern our school activities. It is for this reason that we, the 1965 yearbook staff have chosen the seasons as our theme.

Since the school year convenes in autumn, the first section of our yearbook links the uniqueness of crisp autumn days to our junior-high students who are beginners.

The winter season comes in the midst of the school year, leading us to our second major division in which we interjoin the cumbersome oppressive days of winter to our sophomores and juniors who are in the midst of their burdensome struggle through high school.

At last we come to spring! With all its eloquence and grandeur, spring never fails to lighten the hearts of all, along with all the activities drawing near, spring carries with it a very special meaning to all seniors. The time has come to choose their separate paths into new adventures. It is for this reason that we highlight our seniors in the spring—the season of new life and new beginnings.



ADMINISTRATION

ALMA MATER

Moshannon Valley High,
We sing to you
In ever warmest praise
Of laughter bright
And friendships true
Through all those happy days.
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Loud your praises tell
With loyalty the long years through
To Moshannon Valley High.

It is with distinct pleasure that I greet you and wish you success. It is my sincere hope that, as you wish this to be the best yearbook ever, so I wish that this be the best school ever, in all departments, in all areas.

To the Seniors, my sincere congratulations and best wishes. It is my fond hope that wherever you are, whatever you do, you will remember that we are your friends. You can call on us for advice or guidance whenever the need arises.

W. S. Granlun

TO THE SENIORS

As with the others before you—
I'll miss your smiles,
I'll miss your frowns,
I'll miss your pouting, too.
I'll miss your morning greetings,
and dismissal time adieus.

Mr. Close

Education is our greatest national asset. We as Americans point with pride to our position as the outstanding nation of the world. The youth of today determines our position in the world of tomorrow. We cannot afford to be second.

C. E. Vogle

The Senior Class dedicates the 1965 Knight to Mr. Elton McGarry who taught in the Moshannon Valley area for forty-two years.

The advent of autumn brings a slight coolness in the weather, a multi-colored countryside, a re-adjusting to classes, and football. The athletic director, coaches, team, managers, band and cheerleaders have been working weeks prior to the first game. The immense amount of work that is entailed in the sport finally becomes a reality. The bright lights of Hilltop Stadium draw the people—young and old—to the stands for an evening of excitement.

The deafening roar, falling confetti, the smell of hot coffee and hotdogs, band members performing at half-time—all add to the colorful atmosphere as the Knights strive for victory. At the conclusion of the game the stadium becomes serene once again holding the spirit of triumph in victory, of despair in defeat.

The cold rain of autumn changes to snow, the once beautiful countryside becomes barren and Hilltop Stadium is deserted. Basketball and wrestling now draw the crowd to the gymnasium of MVHS. The familiar sounds are of the thump of a body on a mat and the dribble of a basketball. The sports seem to defy the laws of nature by thriving in the midst of winter while everything else is dormant.

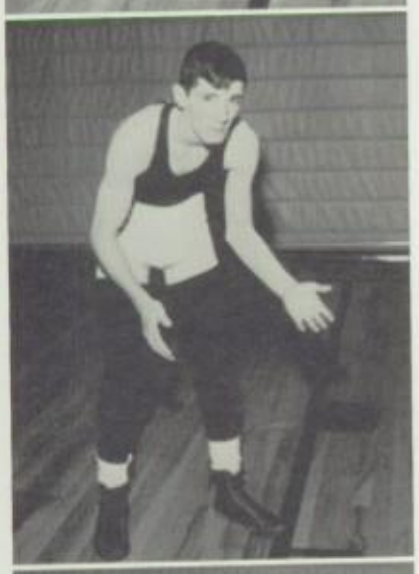
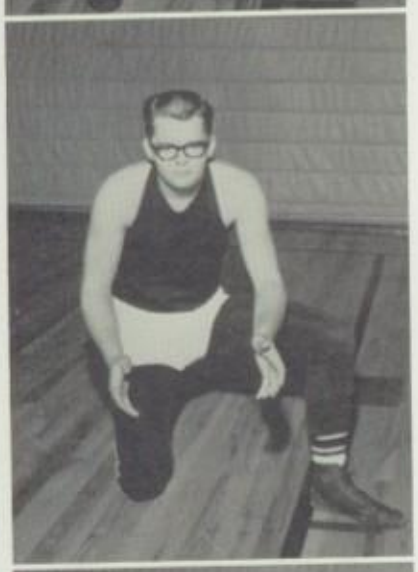
KEN WAGNER
(4 years)
Using power and skill, Ken usually dominated his opponent.

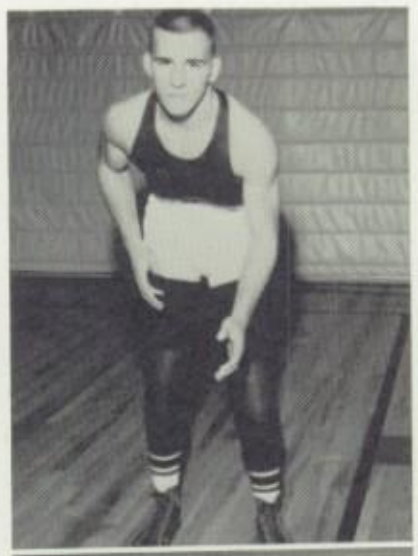


MIKE DUGAN
(4 years)
Always set the Knights off with a start. Bringing home the "Outstanding Wrestler Trophy" was his gift to MVHS.

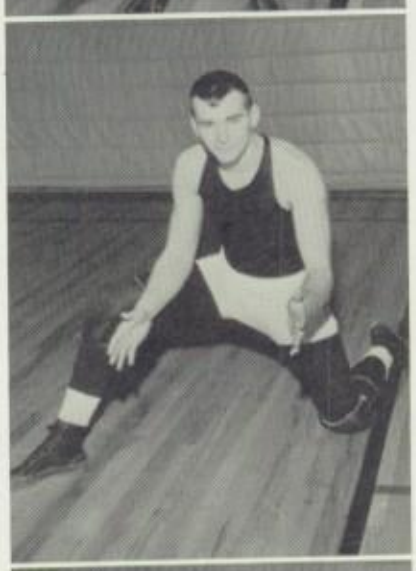


DREW GRACE
(2 years)
Drew won his most important match at Huntington.

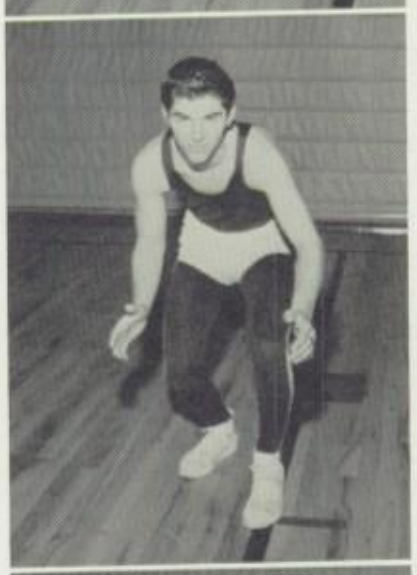
NICK RICHTSHEIT
(2 years)
Whenever "tied up" you could bet that Nick was thinking of a way to get out.



TOM LEON
(4 years)
Tom was dependable and consistent every season.



TOM KNIGHT
(3 years)
Tom was a vital asset to the team because of his sportsmanship.



JOHN JACOBS
(2 years)
Eager for wins, John never gave up his hard pushing drive on the mat.

FRANCIS ZAPSKY
(2 years)
Francis' favorite strategy was the "half-nelson."

JIM JACOBSON
(4 years)
Jake was known for his barrel roll and exceptionally fast movements.

Snaps

Do you really think I can pin him???

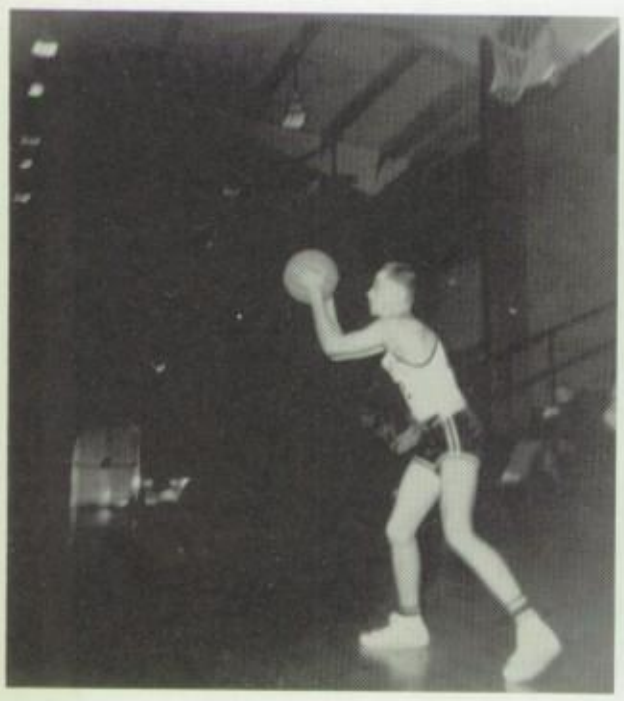
We didn't plan it this way Dave.

Dave shoots for a basket and adds another point to the score.

Tom Leon proves to be a winner.

Loui prepares to meet his opponent.

Boy what a mixed up game!



O'Neil tries again.

Mo Valley volleys for the ball.

At the last match the senior wrestlers received recognition.

SENIORS

"At last it has arrived!" This short expression may very well sum up the sentiments of the entire senior class. At last what has come? Is it the prom? award day? class day? graduation? or is it any other of the numerous activities which draw the close of twelve years of education? or could it be the warm weather, the green grass, the song of nature coming alive again?

One can confidently say that it is undoubtedly a combination of spring and senior activities which makes the seniors come to the realization that this is the spring of their life—life is just beginning!

Class History

When the fall of the year rolls around, it means different things to different people. But to the class of '65, whether we liked it or not, the fall of '61 meant that we were Freshmen embarking on a four year cruise which would end when we were presented with our diplomas.

To guide our little ship of state, we chose the following officers: In Madera, Francis Zapsky, president; Bill Jasper, vice-president; Jack Hensal, secretary; and Barbara Shoff, treasurer. Houtzdale chose Alexandria Sutusky, president; Jim Jacobson, vice-president; Geneiveve Tatanish, secretary; and Joe Finney, treasurer. The annual trip to Gettysburg and a freshman dance at Houtzdale made the first step of our cruise a memorable one.

During our sophomore year, we met our first trial as captains. We selected the curriculum which we would pursue. We soon became bogged down in a sea of term papers, homework, candy sales, and extracurricular activities. We managed to stay afloat and the prospect of a trip to Pittsburgh, ordering our class rings, and a class dance brought brighter skies. We chose as leaders during that eventful year, presidents, Nancy Rebo and Tom Knight; vice-presidents, Wanda Rainey and Jane Reese; secretaries, Linda Close and Barbara Johnson; and treasurers, Mike Dugan and Rose Rackovan.

We began our junior year with an enormous splash as we plunged into new experiences and friendships amid the surroundings of a new school building. Our little ship, swollen with the pride of being upperclassmen, took on a glitter of gold as we eagerly received our long-awaited class rings. With strong constitutions and capable leaders, Betsy Jones, Tom Lehman, Dee Swineford, and Bob Dufour, our ship easily rode out our major obstacle, the prom. Amid the conclaves of a moonlit garden, we honored the seniors by presenting them with a prom entitled "These Precious Moments."

As we entered our senior year, we could see in the distance that golden shore which promised us our passports to the future—our diplomas. But there were still many unchartered waters yet to cross. Nancy Williams, Caryn Lee, Charlotte Rusnak, and Barbara Johnson, having been selected class officers, we sailed merrily on our way with a trip to Washington, magazine sales, and a class play, PASS THE CREAM. But unfortunately by the time mid-term examinations were over, our entire crew was down, caught unaware by a raging epidemic of "senioritis." Luckily the junior class came up with a remedy by presenting us with a prom entitled "Oriental Gardens."

To our amazement, we soon found out that we were only a few miles from shore, but final exams, Baccalaurate, and Commencement soon erased them from our itinerary. On June 1st we docked and landed on the shore of life. No longer as a group, but now as individuals, each one set out on his own cruise into life.
